| information about the new faculty/staff clinic, if it isn't already being added probably; these questions are too broad to answer without sitting down with the document--which is what the committee will do. Better guidance would provide more specific responses. |
| I think the Copyright Statement dated 1994 should be looked at; we need to look at the guiding documents from the AAUP to be sure that we are up to date with regard to family-related matters and the impact on tenure timetables. On another note with regard to Faculty Senate Handbook format/online or print: given that we must be cognizant of costs, I think all consideration should be given to maintaining the document in its online format with no more than 5 to 10 print copies available for archival purposes. We are in institution whose signature is that of being technologically savvy, and I think all parts of the institution should support this signature in every way possible. |

| I encountered something this term I'd never heard of and couldn't find in the faculty handbook or the student handbooke. A student is taking my course as a listener (not an audit). I'd never heard of that and tried to look it up and found nothing. Fortunately, my dept head knew about it. |
| Not that I can think of at this time. |

Faculty salary determination, annual evaluation, and merit pay criteria and procedures. I do not think it is enough to say that this is done by department chair. I think this should be done by a faculty committee in the department and college. I am concerned that both representatives to this work from our college are from only one department.
