Number	02.01.61
Division	Academic Affairs
Date	May 2016
Purpose	This policy defines librarian faculty titles and positions at The University of Alabama in Huntsville.

Policy The librarian academic titles and credentials defined below are required for the appointment and promotion of librarians who are classified as non-tenure-track faculty. Recruitment and hiring of librarians shall conform to the University's Affirmative Action Plan and comply with the Faculty Recruiting and Hiring Policy 02.01.06. Additionally, like all other faculty employed at the University, librarians involved in instruction must meet the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on Colleges (SACSCOC) credential requirements for teaching at the appropriate level as stated in the Faculty Credential Policy 02.01.57.

Description of Librarian

Each librarian's professional responsibilities include activities that contribute directly and indirectly to student learning. Librarians contribute directly to students' acquisition of knowledge and skills by teaching in the library's information literacy program and working with students individually during reference transactions. Normally, members of the library faculty are expected to teach and to provide reference services to students, faculty, and other library patrons. Among the indirect contributions are development of the library's print and electronic collections and the creation of print and online resources that aid students in finding the information they need. Each librarian carries additional responsibilities that contribute to the smooth operation and administration of the library. These include supervision of student and/or support staff and management of some aspect of the library's operations (reference, interlibrary loan, technical services, electronic resources, archives, systems, user services).

Effective library service is characterized by (1) teaching and public service that embodies the constructs set for all University faculty (organization and preparation, engagement, delivery, fairness, and accessibility); (2) engagement with departmental faculty in the development of the library's collections and services. This includes, but is not limited to, monitoring a department's use of its library allocation, informing faculty of new publications and resources in the field, development of research guides and finding aids in the field, and promoting library use among the faculty; (3) identifying and implementing innovative information technologies that improve library services; and (4) effective management of the operational unit, including effective supervision of staff, responsible use of library resources, participation in library planning, and project management.

Research/creative endeavor includes scholarly, scientific, or artistic endeavors. Librarians are expected to do research to improve individual effectiveness and overall quality of library service. Some examples of research/creativity are publications, conference presentations, development of innovative techniques or programs, and substantial redesign or development of programs.

Service/professional obligation includes on-campus and off-campus activities. On-campus service includes activities whose principal purpose is the efficient and effective functioning of the University. Committee responsibilities are the most obvious examples of such activities, but all activities potentially beneficial to the UAH community, including student advising, also will be considered service. Off-campus service refers to those activities in which a librarian, officially or unofficially, serves as liaison between UAH and some external organization, or shares his or her expertise with those outside the University. Such activities will aim to affirm UAH's commitment to the larger communities of which it is a part. Such activities include participation in scholarly and professional organizations, professional consulting, delivering lectures and workshops to off-campus groups, and representing UAH at professional activities involving groups outside the University.

Procedures

Non-Tenure-Track Faculty Appointments/Promotions: Librarians

Librarian appointments are non-tenure-track faculty appointments. Non-tenure-track faculty are given either (1) a one-year appointment, or (2) an appointment that may continue for a stated period of time up to three years, renewable annually for one year within that period, contingent upon the faculty member's satisfactory performance, the availability of funds, and the instructional needs of the department.

The review of a non-tenure-track faculty member follows the review process outlined in Chapter 7.8.5 of the UAH Faculty Handbook. Recommendations for reappointment of a librarian are the responsibility of the Library reappointment committee consisting of at least two Library members at higher rank appointed by the library director. The library director and the provost select a tenured faculty member to serve as an external committee member.

If the librarian is seeking promotion, the promotion committee consists of five members consisting of at least one tenured faculty member who is agreed upon by the library director and the provost and four librarians of higher rank. If there is not a sufficient number of librarians of higher rank, then additional tenured faculty members agreed upon by the library director and provost will be asked to serve on the promotion committee. The promotion committee will review the promotion request and provide a written review of the candidate's promotion file to the unit head, stating whether the candidate meets the criteria for promotion. The unit head then reviews the promotion file and writes a letter of recommendation to the director. The promotion file is reviewed by the director who provides a recommendation and submits the promotion file to the provost, who makes the promotion file available to the University Review Board (URB) for its review and vote. The provost receives the URB's recommendation and conducts an independent review prior to making a final decision. In conducting the review, the provost evaluates all information submitted and may utilize professional assessments from appropriate faculty and academic administrators, as well as the promotion file and all previous recommendations. The provost, with the concurrence of the president, makes the final decision on the promotion of a librarian.

Librarians receiving a negative promotion decision may appeal by following guidelines set forth in the Faculty Handbook, 7.10.12.

Service in a non-tenure-track appointment is not considered part of a probationary period for tenure consideration, and tenure cannot be earned in the position.
