Book Arts: Single Sheet Zines
Wilson Hall, Room 355
Description: Learn how to create a single sheet zine! Each student will learn how to fold a single-sheet book, and afterward, they can fill their book with relief stamps, drawing, and text.

Game Level Design
Wilson Hall, Room 201
Description: Join us for an interactive demo where you will get to design your own rooms for a roguelite genre action game. We'll be able to test your designs using Unreal Engine. You'll see how characters, environments, and controls come together for an engaging player experience. We'll end by trading computers and playing each other's levels. This session is a great way to explore how creativity and technology combine in Game Design!

Photograms: Cameraless Photography
Wilson Hall, Room 182
Description: The word Photography comes from the Greek phos and graphe- Light Writing, or Writing with Light. The simplest photographic prints are actually made without a camera. We can place objects on light-sensitive paper to preserve their shadows created by light. The results are called Photograms; "gram" is a written character, in this case made with light. Learning this technique will inspire creativity and help students appreciate the magic of Photography.

Flow! Storytelling in Comics
Wilson Hall, Room 168
Description: Come follow along with key animator tips and tricks to plan out and write your very own comic. No experience or high-level drawing skills are necessary; all you need is curiosity and a desire to explore the world of bringing drawings to life.
